GET IN THE GAME: ADDRESSING HIGH-RISK GAMBLING AMONG COLLEGE STUDENTS

The explosion of online sports betting and prediction markets has led to an increase in risky gambling behaviors on campus. Students engaging in these behaviors often go under the radar and are at higher risk of co-occurring disorders. It is critical campuses understand the changing landscape and are prepared to support students. Join Claire Spada with Problem Gambling Network of Ohio and Cindy Clouner from the Higher Education Center for Alcohol and Drug Misuse Prevention and Recovery as they explore the current gambling landscape and its trends, discuss the relationship between high-risk gambling and other behavioral health concerns like alcohol misuse and suicide, and identify strategies to integrate gambling work into existing campus efforts across the continuum.
